Mathias has always favoured playing and writing original music and started composing at a very young age. With his first band Blue Spirit he toured in Germany and recorded two albums. In late 2005 he moved to Dublin, Ireland to dedicate himself exclusively to his passion for music. Mathias soon joined the alternative rock band Japanese Toys with whom he recorded the single On My Stereo/ Brave New World in 2007 and the album Dance Me in 2010. Their music has been played on different Irish national radio stations.

After commencing his studies at Newpark Music Centre in 2010 he got involved in new creative projects. In 2013 he successfully completed a four year honours degree course as a Bachelor of Arts in Jazz Performance with a First Class Honours.

Apart from working as a composer, arranger and producer in 'Tuscany Soundz Studios' he has been working as a guitar tutor in Dublin for the last seven years.

In various function and cover bands such as Baumann & Casey (Acoustic Rock/Pop/Funk), The CBB Three (Rock), The Clare Dunne Quartet (Jazz Standards), Funkalicious Disconnection (Funk/Disco), Tea 4 Three (Jazz Standards) and Soul Purpose (Soul/Funk) he gained great experience in different styles. As a session musician he performed and recorded with Susana Lima (POR), Dorota Konczewska (POL), Pat Killalea (IRL), Barrie Cassidy (IRL) and Joe Casey (IRL) among other artists and singer-songwriters.

Currently Mathias is working on his own projects including the Mathias Baumann Quartet and the Mathias Baumann Group of which the latter features an international line-up with a three-piece string section.
